

Biography

Annika Bergman Rosamond

Annika Bergman Rosamond, Associate Professor (Docent) in Political Science and International Relations, Lund University

Annika Bergman Rosamond is Associate Professor in International Relations at Lund University, Sweden. She has published widely on feminist foreign policy as well as gender cosmopolitanism, gendered nationalism, indigenous justice, feminist security studies and gender and celebrity humanitarianism. She obtained her D.Phil. at the University of Sussex. She has held positions at the universities of Leicester and Edinburgh and at the Danish Institute for International Studies. Annika was recently Chair of the Feminist Theory and Gender Studies section of the International Studies Association, USA, and is currently co-convenor of the British International Studies (BISA) Gendering International Relations Working Group.

Annika participates in public events and seminars and provides commentary in Swedish and international media. She has served on the editorial advisory board of Review of International Studies and is currently on the advisory board of European Security. As of June 2020, she is one of the founding associate editors of the Frontiers in Political Science journal (Peace and Democracy)